National Institutes of Health Planning and Research Grant Opportunities

July 08, 2016
News Type: Weekly Spark, Weekly Spark Announcement

The National Institutes of Health has released companion funding opportunities for research to detect and prevent suicidal behavior, ideation, and self-harm in youth who are in contact with the juvenile justice system. The separate funding opportunity announcements include a planning grant [1], which provides resources for preliminary research activities, and a research grant [2], which will support a larger-scale study in the topic area. Applications for the planning grant may be submitted between September 16, 2016 and September 8, 2019; rolling deadlines are February 16, June 16, and October 16. Applications for the research grant may be submitted between September 5, 2016 and September 8, 2019; rolling deadlines are February 5, June 5, and October 5. For more information, see Standard Due Dates for Completing Applications [3].

Links within this resource

Printed on 05/31/2020 from http://www.sprc.org/news/national-institutes-health-planning-research-grant-opportunities